

CONTRIBUTORS

CLAIRE ANDRIEU is Professor of History at the Université de Paris-I and the Institut d'études politiques of Paris. She is also a member of the Mission d'étude sur la spoliation des Juifs de France. Her recent and forthcoming publications include La persécution des Juifs de France (1940-1944) et le rétablissement de la légalité républicaine. Recueil des textes officiels (Paris: La Documentation française, 2000), La Spoliation financière (Paris: La Documentation française, 2000); and Le Club Jean Moulin, 1958-1970 (forthcoming, end of 2000).

FRANÇOIS CLERC began his career as a French civil servant assigned to Morocco from 1953 to 1960. He spent the following nine years in Brussels at the Direction générale de l'agriculture of the CEE. From 1970 to 1976 he served as a top administrator at the main farmer's union, the FNSEA. From 1982 to 1992 he held various positions in the Ministry of Agriculture, including Regional Director of Agriculture and Forests in the Île-de-France. A member of the Académie d'agriculture, he has recently completed a study of employment prospects for students with agricultural and veterinary degrees and is currently working on "Agriculture and Environment in Twentieth-Century France" for a collection on Les Sources de l'histoire de l'environnement (ed. Andrée Corvol).

MICHEL GUELDRY is Associate Professor and French Program Head at the Monterey Institute of International Studies, Monterey, CA. His research focuses on France and the EU, post-Gaullism and national identity, French environmental policy, gender politics and ethnic sub-cultures. He is currently working on a book manuscript on France and European Integration.

BERTRAND HERVIEU, a rural sociologist, is President of the Institut national de recherche agronomique and Research Director at the CNRS. From 1991 to 1992, he was advisor to Prime Minister Edith Cresson on rural matters. From 1997 to 1999 he served as advisor to ministers of Agriculture Louis Le Pen and Jean Glavany and was responsible for the elaboration of the "Loi d'orientation agricole." His numerous publications include: Les Agriculteurs (1996); Les Champs du futur (1993); Du Droit des peuples à se nourrir eux-mêmes (1996), Au bonheur des campagnes (1996).

HELENA LEWIS is a Research Affiliate of the Humanities Center at Harvard University. Her publications include Dada Turns Red: The Politics of Surrealism (1990).

NONNA MAYER is Research Director of the Centre d'études de la vie politique française at the CNRS. She also directs the Political Sociology graduate program at the Institut d'études politiques with Gérard Grunberg. Her research interests include electoral sociology, racism, extreme right and anti-extreme right activism. Her most recent book is Ces Français qui votent FN (1999). She is currently working on a study examining French attitudes toward democracy.

JACQUES REVEL is President and Research Director at the École des hautes études en sciences sociales, specializing in the social history of modern European culture and historiography. Recent publications include: Histoire de la France, ed. with André Burguière, 4 vols. (1989-1993); Jeux d'échelles (1996); Histories. French Construction of the Past, with Lynn Hunt (1996).

SUSAN CAROL ROGERS is Associate Professor of Anthropology and French Studies at New York University. Her research focuses on farming and rural life in France and the United States. Publications include: Shaping Modern Times in Rural France (1991); "Natural Histories: The Rise and fall of French Rural Studies" (French Historical Studies, 1995); "L'enseignement agricole aux États-Unis: à propos du système Land Grant" (Histoire et sociétés rurales, 1997). She is currently working on a book about French rural tourism.

EMMANUELLE SAADA is a sociologist and Assistant Director of the Institute of French Studies at New York University. She is currently completing a dissertation on the historical sociology of métissage in the French colonies. She has published several articles on the French colonial experience and immigration to France, including: "Volontés de savoir coloniales: les enquêtes sur les métis, 1908-1937," in Histoire des métissages hors d'Europe: nouveaux mondes, nouveaux peuples, Gérard Grunberg and Monique Lakroum eds. (1999) and "Enfants de la colonie," in En Quête d'Ariel: Discours sur le métissage, identités métisses, Sylvie Kandé ed. (1999).

JOHN W. P. VEUGELERS is Assistant Professor of Sociology at the University of Toronto. His current research is on party politics in postwar Toulon. Publications include "A Challenge for Political Sociology: The Rise of Far-Right Parties in Contemporary Western Europe" in Current Sociology (1999), and (with R. Chiarini) "The Far Right in Italy and France: Anti-Immigrant Politics and Anti-Fascism" in Martin Schain, Aristide Zolberg, and Patrick Hossay (eds.), Shadows Over Europe: The Development and Impact of the Extreme Right in Western Europe (forthcoming).